ReadyWrap™ low-stretch medical binders can be used as an alternative or supplement to elastic compression garments. If your patient has trouble donning elastic daywear, or can benefit from low-stretch compression, ReadyWrap™ may be the perfect option.

Why Choose ReadyWrap™?
- Simplify donning with ReadyWrap's color-coded strapping system.
- Prevent gapping with a 50% overlap on Calf, Knee, and Thigh units.
- Easily adjust to allow for daily girth fluctuations.
- Provide higher working and lower resting compression levels with low-stretch materials.

“The garment is very easy for our elderly patients who never could successfully don or doff a compression stocking...I have been surprised at how well the Solaris ReadyWrap™ garment manages patients’ edema as effectively, if not even better, than a 30-40 mmHg compression stocking. Thank you again for making such a great product.”

A. Kelley
Rehab Manager, OT, CLT

ReadyWrap™ is a variable compression garment. Compression is dependent upon how the garment is donned. The medical professional should use the same judgement on the fit for the ReadyWrap™ as they do for fitting traditional short-stretch bandaging. ReadyWrap™ is not intended for compression greater than 40 mmHg.
